Selgars Mill

A centre for the democratic economy,
climate emergency, and social change

Powered by

ACTION

a residential training centre

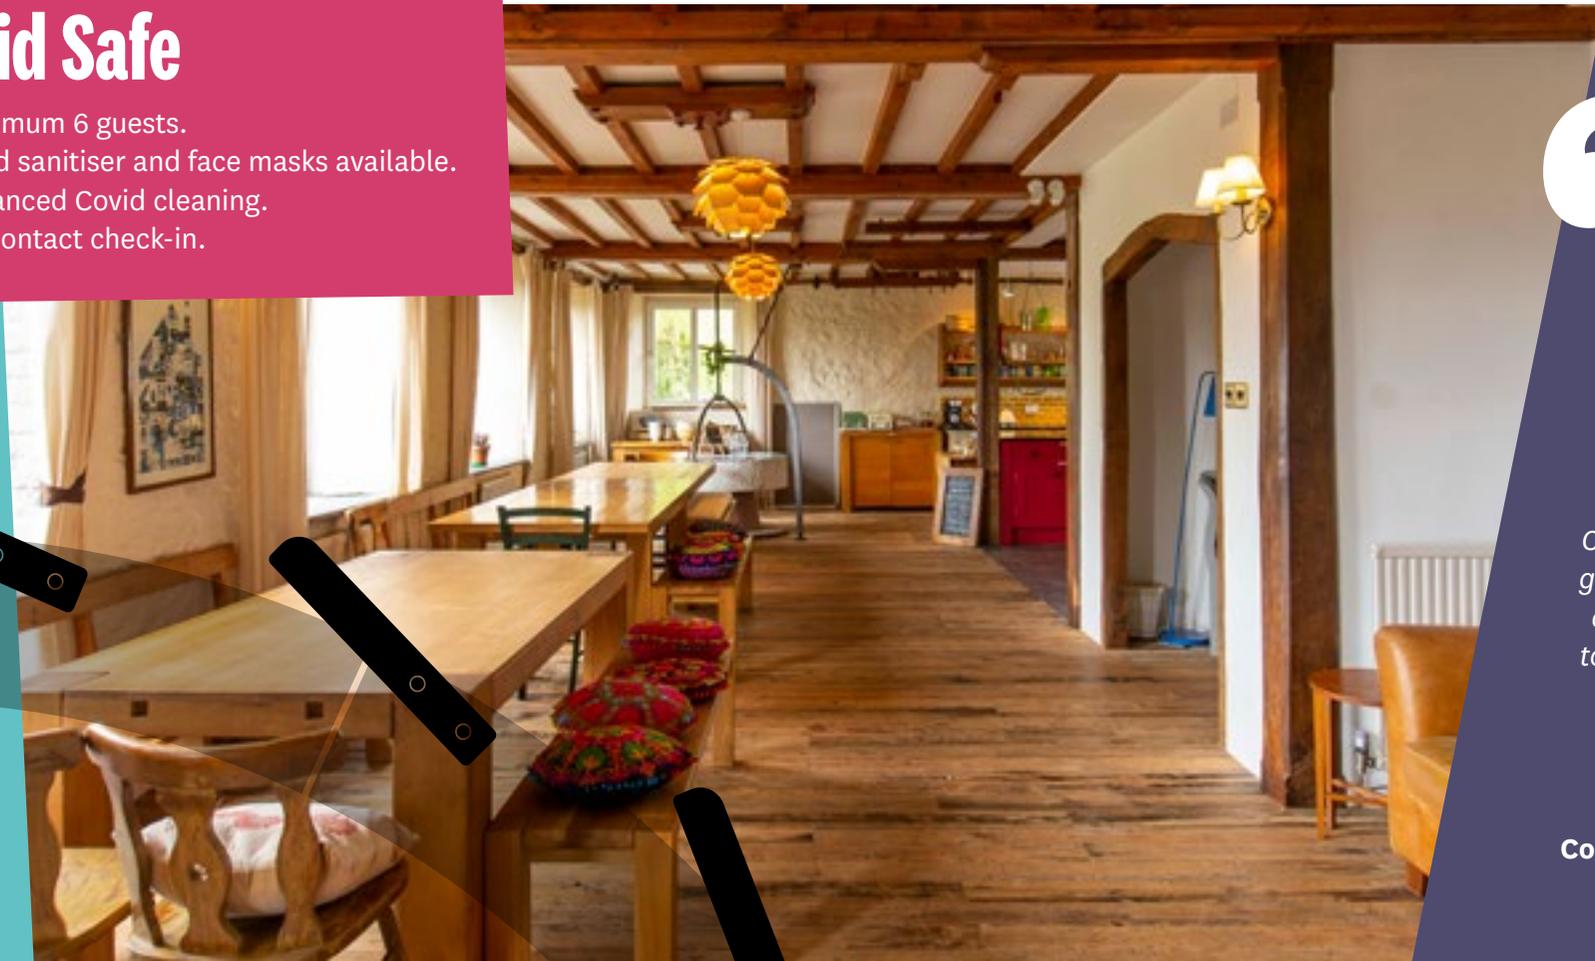

Selgars Mill is a new residential training centre supporting the democratic economy, climate emergency, and social change.

We hope to soon open with a full programme of events, from short courses to small festivals, organisational away days to cultural residentials. With our beautiful eight acre site and facilities, we'll be able to provide a unique space for events.

During the pandemic we haven't been able to open the residential centre, and are operating a significantly reduced capacity, so in the meantime we're inviting you to wind down in our idyllic and quiet space for your own retreats for up to six people.

Covid Safe

- Maximum 6 guests.
- Hand sanitiser and face masks available.
- Enhanced Covid cleaning.
- No contact check-in.

“

Selgars Mill is a space for you to bring people together to learn, to create, to grow, and to celebrate. We've updated our site and processes to create a Covid-safe place for small groups to enjoy. And we're offering low-cost retreats to community leaders and artists who want to relax and create.

Retreats at Selgars Mill

Interested in self-organising your own low-cost work retreat this autumn or winter?

Selgars Mill is a secluded 19th century old mill house nestled in eight acres of beautiful gardens with mature trees, a large vegetable garden and private woodlands in Mid-Devon just two miles from Tiverton Parkway Station or just off the M5.

The accommodation is large and offers ample space over the four floors overlooking the stunning gardens whilst keeping a cosy and warm atmosphere with roaring fires. The first two floors are perfect for relaxing, offering two separate lounge snug areas which both have wood burning stoves and a music area including a piano, a double bass and percussion instruments for use by guests. There is an enormous kitchen area with several fridges and multiple cooking appliance options and large, long dining tables.

Community Leader Retreats

Over these past few months charities, volunteers, and other community organisations have experienced huge pressure on their resources, time, and services whilst managing the most difficult financial landscape.

Selgars Mill can offer a place of rest, relaxation, and reflection. A chance to have some space in nature to restore and replenish the internal resources of those community leaders that have given so much and need a mental and physical health break.

We're offering community leaders a self-catered break away for £250 per night for up to six people.

Artist Retreats

This is a perfect spot for writers, artists and musicians to come and spend some focussed creative time with their peers, connecting with their passion and art in the inspirational surroundings of nature and the wilderness. The natural light floods into the many windows and skylights creating a close connection with the outside world even when inside.

There are large tables that can be used for writing, painting and other artistic disciplines, and musical instruments that are free to use including a well-tuned piano. And there is even access to a pottery studio with a wheel and kiln (by arrangement). For those seeking absolute solace and silence, there is a very special Waggon next to the stream which does not have access to the internet or mobile reception but does have a small wood burner and a kettle for endless fresh tea.

There are two fire pit areas, one in the secluded woods which complete the wild and creative experience. We're offering a self-catered stay for a maximum of six artists for £250 per night.
